4.1. When we offer to purchase your device, we will quote the maximum price we are willing to pay for the device. This price is an estimated Trade-In value based on the information you provide about the device and is subject to change at the point of our receipt and grading of the device.

4.2. When your offer to sell your device has been placed, the maximum price we have quoted is guaranteed until the time we receive the device but no longer than 14 days after we quoted the price. If your device is received more than 14 days after the date of your offer, then we reserve the right to offer a new price reflecting the Trade-in value at that time.

4.3. If the device received differs to the device you have offered for sale, the order will be processed based on the Trade-In value for the device received, not the device offered for sale.

4.4. When we receive your device, we will check that it is complete and in the condition you have stated. Providing it does, we will purchase the device at the Trade-In value we have offered.

4.5. If you receive a reduced quotation following receipt and inspection of your device, we will give you 2 working days to reject the new value and have your device returned free of charge. If we do not receive your rejection or we have not heard from you within 2 working days, we will conclude that you accept the reduced price and we will process your order for payment at the reduced Trade-In value.

using protective wrapping, boxes or other packaging. If the device is shipped by Royal Mail and lost, stolen or damaged in transit, Royal Mail postage will cover your costs for up to £100.

6.3. Royal Mail has introduced guidelines regarding shipping products containing lithium batteries so you are advised to inform Royal Mail about such batteries in the device you ship. Find out more information about the guidelines and how they impact you here.

6.4. You must ensure that a shipping label is securely fastened to the parcel or package, and that barcodes are visible and not obscured by tape. The barcode is crucial in getting the device to us or shipped back to you. You should ensure you are given a receipt by the Post Office when the device is dropped off as proof of sending the device to us.

6.5. If the device is lost in transit you will need your receipt (as set out in paragraph 6.4) and the correct IMEI or serial number of your device in order to be able to make a claim through Royal Mail for any lost device.
